Dyslogic Syndrome

Why Millions of Kids are "Hyper," Attention-Disordered, Learning Disabled, Depressed, Aggressive, Defiant, or Violent — and What We Can Do About It

Bernard Rimland

2007 • 192pp • hardcover • ISBN 978-1843108771 • $24.95

"In this highly readable and potentially groundbreaking study, the late Rimland, the father of modern autism research, presents a well-written overview of 'abnormal reasoning behaviors' in our current society and refutes the notion that there can be a 'card through psychotherapy and/or drug therapy. In fact, he makes the argument that there do more damage than good.'"

Voices from the Spectrum

Parents, Grandparents, Siblings, People with Autism, and Professionals Share Their Wisdom

Edited by Cindy N. Aitel and Robert A. Naseef

2005 • 272pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843107866 • $19.95

"A symphony of rich density thanks to the book's contributors who generously share their myriad of perspectives, questions, struggles, hopes, and thoughts on life, mingled with autism spectrum disorders. At times easy to read and at times the kind of reading that leaves lumps in the throat, and thuds in the heart. Voices from the Spectrum is always honest and genuine. I whole-heartedly recommend it."

Autism, Brain, and Environment

Richard Lathe

2006 • 228pp • hardcover • ISBN 978-1843104384 • $24.95

"[Lathe's] book is a clearly and accessibly written account of his proposal that environmental factors, including heavy metals, interact with the genetic vulnerability to cause damage to the brain's systems...resulting in autism..." This is, overall, a scholarly book providing a possible explanation of autism. It will be of interest to parents as well as professionals."

A Developmental Approach

Laurie Leventhal-Baifer and Cassandra Cee

2004 • 320pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843107484 • $19.95

This landmark book focuses on how AS presents in pre-school children. An essential guide for parents coming to terms with their child's AS diagnosis and for the professionals who work with this age group, it is unique in answering pressing questions specific to younger children. How can parents help their AS child to develop speech and language? What help is available at school and home? When, if at all, should a child be informed about AS?

A Cat Reflects on Life, Catness and Autism

TO. Dasha

2008 • 176pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843105862 • $17.95

"A heartwarming book providing insights into how autistic persons perceive and interact with the world as only a cat can. As Dasha 'meows' about her human members of the family we learn how autism is a different, rather than a disordered way of being. Thus book is a delightful and informative read."

2005 • 256pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843102729 • $19.95

Rutha Jacksen

2005 • 176pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843107439 • $21.95

People with Asperger Syndrome (AS) understand and respond to the world in a very different way from people without this condition. Paula Jacksen, an experienced child psychotherapist, demonstrates how to interpret classic analytic and psychodynamic theories in relation to people with Asperger Syndrome and explains how revised theories of mind, executive functioning and central coherence help provide new concepts with which to properly articulate the experiences of those with AS.

A Self-Regulatory Perspective

Thomas L. Whitman

2004 • 256pp • paperback • ISBN 978-1843107544 • $26.95

"The book is easy to read yet respectful; it does not speak over the layperson, nor does it talk down to him or her. The organization of the chapters serves well for an easy read or a quick reference. The recommendations are feasible and strategic. Furthermore, Whitman does not recommend specific interventions because he has established already that individuals need individual assessment and treatment...I highly recommend this book to all of the intended audiences."

He made this film to try and explain exactly what it is like to have autism and help raise awareness and understanding of those like him who have the condition. This DVD could be used in a variety of ways to enhance people's understanding and awareness and I think the style and content makes it suitable for a wide-ranging audience."
