Eric was an odd boy who sleepwalked through his life in Singapore, unaware of feelings and human relationships. Stuck in his own world, he spent most of his time collecting facts in order to understand the confusion surrounding him.

Years after his formal diagnosis of autism in 2001, Eric successfully stepped out of the limits imposed by autism without any professional therapy or bio-medical treatment.

The author of "Mirror Mind" and "Autism & Self Improvement", Eric Chen lends his inner voice to help parents, teachers and social workers get in touch with the experience of autism.

This book expands on the material that he shares on his website as well as his talks in Hong Kong, China, Macau and Singapore.
